

Hurricane Harvey's Destruction

Eric and Dawn Draper, Owners Freund Funeral Home Cuero, Texas

PFDA has begun a fund to help with Hurricane Harvey relief and we have, with the help of Funeral Directors Life Insurance Company, identified a fellow funeral home member that is in tremendous need.

Freund Funeral Home in Cuero, Texas is a fourth-generation establishment that is currently owned by Eric and Dawn Draper. They have lost everything. The location of this funeral home is just north of Corpus Christi which was hit very hard by this storm.

This young couple have three small children. Eric was listed in the local community as an “emerging leader” and attributes his success to “God, family and community.” He has been quoted as saying that “[H]ard work and persistence are so important in succeeding. I have a true passion for helping and serving people.” Now, they need your help.

Please send contributions to the PFDA office and make your checks payable to “PFDA” with a note designating “Disaster Relief” to help this young couple and fellow funeral directors rebuild their business and continue to serve their community.
